Dear woman,
Please stand up.
Stand with your feet within shoulders width
And then lift your chin up.
Now Place each of your fists at the waist of your hips
For we are standing in positions of power when we stand like this.

We are wonder women & Together we stand against every single obstacle in our way Many have tried to stifle our voices but now we have so much to say
And we are standing in our power
And we are standing in our strength
You see the picture of this journey is much too beautiful to paint

Every shape, every color, every size, background and path has been strategically placed and we have been given a wonderful task.
To blaze a brand new trail for our little girls who are women in training & this too is a woman’s world;
one that daily, we are each creating.

And we are creating freedom, stepping into powerful positions Making history with every stride
And creating a brand new vision

For the entire world to see that we are created equally We are breaking all the barriers and we are doing it intentionally

So ladies, please stand in your positions as this world adjusts to our reign, we are building a brand new world & we get to wear our crowns again.
And stand in all the rooms that we were once denied a key.
We demand respect, we demand equality.

As women We have raised our children,
As women We have stood beside our men Now it’s time we raise ourselves from the soils we’ve been planted in And watch this world change with every move that we make, may the earth feel the impact of how many women have paved the way With so much courage, so much compassion, lifelong commitments and unyielding truth We understand that When we come together there is truly no limit to what we can do.

We are equal
We are powerful
We are unstoppable

And we have the proof And we won’t stop putting in the work until the world hears our message and we see a lasting breakthrough.

Kylelashay Draper
An original work commissioned in honor of YWCA Metropolitan Phoenix Tribute to Legacy Leadership 2021 www.ywcaaz.org